

Litigation Team and Individual Details

It is a fact of life that disputes will arise, whether in your personal life or in business. Our lawyers have extensive experience in dealing with claims for a wide range of clients, from small to medium size businesses and a broad range of individuals including those of high net worth. These claims regularly involve disputes regarding business, land and property.

You may have a contractual dispute with a business or someone may owe you money. Regardless of what has given rise to your particular issue, all disputes require the highest level of attention to detail in order that they can be diffused and ultimately resolved.

Our department deals also with contentious probate matters, company/shareholder disputes, employment matters and various other issues which require the involvement of the Courts.

Whatever the issue, our litigation department will aim to resolve the dispute as quickly and as economically as possible and to our clients' maximum advantage. We will endeavour to achieve this without the need to institute Court proceedings, but should these become necessary then our experience in this area will be utilised to our clients advantage. Our experienced lawyers will aim to offer a competitive and efficient service.
